JOHN C. SPENCER AND THE

TARIFF. As Mr. Spencer has been appointed Secretary of the Treasury, it becomes a matter of interest to know what his views are on the subject of the Tariff. Whatever modifiring the present administration will doubtless be in accordance with his views, if not less than $500, nor more than $10,000, he continues to be the Secretary. We find the following exposition of his views on the subject, in his Rochester letter, of 19th N at the opening of the preceding session of other relative of the female seduced.

The laws at present do not punish seduction, it merely gives the father of the victima claim to damages for certain reasons affecting the resonance of the people to the imposition of burdens not necessary to the support of Government, the President asys: "I mis base, as well as the second of the remarks of the reposition of burdens not necessary to the support of Government, the President asys: "I mis base, as well as justice of the support of Government, the President asys: "I mis base, as well as justice of the office of the office that the support of Government, the president asys: "I mis base, as well as justice of the office that the support of Government and the support of Government, the president asys: "I mis base, as well as justice of the office that the support of Government may be justified in a death the very purpose of obtaining a revenue, he remarks: "So also the Government may be justified in a destination of duties indiscriminately on a wild, that the imposition of duties indiscriminately on a wild, that the imposition of duties indiscriminately on a wild, that the imposition of duties indiscriminately on a wild, that the imposition of duties indiscriminately on a wild, that the imposition of duties indiscriminately on a wild, that the imposition of duties indiscriminately on a wild, that the imposition of duties indiscriminately on a wild, that the imposition of duties indiscriminately on a wild, that the imposition of duties indiscriminately on a wild, that the imposition of the brain when the second of the propose of college life, a dozen years ago, and loved him for he considerations of which the subject of the office when the subject of the office wild and the propose of college life, a dozen years ago, and loved him for he considerations of which are the college of the interest of the whole country and permanency in the subject of the office when the college of the interest of the whole country, who would not compel that portion of the flower than Congress, he says : by the general acquiescence of the people in the equity and honesty of any system. And if the liberality so unusual, thus evinced by a statesman coming from that portion of our Union which has no manufactures, be reciprocated and met in the same spirit by those be reciprocated and met in the same spirit by those who are most anxious to promote those interests, a unity of feeling will exist throughout the confederacy, which will afford more stable, and therefore, more real and substantial protection to our own industry, than any laws that may be passed under occasional and spasmodic excitements, which will be sure to intermit with the cessation of the stimulants that produce them. duce them.

Should the Tariff law that has been passed and reseived the signature of the President, be found in practice to differ in important particulars from the just and liberal principles advanced by him, he will doubtless befound ready to sanction such necessary amend-ments as may be proposed by that body, in which the Constitution has exclusively vested the authority to originate and pass revenue bills. On the subject of protection we have found no cause to complain of President Tyler .-He took in the outset, a decided stand in for the principle of discrimination; and this is stinence Society, convened to consider such meas-the appointment of Mr. Forward, (an able and staunch friend of home industry,) he did as good justice; and now in the appointment of Mr. Spencer, we have ample assurance that there is to be no change of policy in this respect.

The tariff of 1842 remains unaltered, and though doubtless in many points defective, is yet slowly, but surely, doing its perfect work. The importations of pratected articles are comparatively trifling, and our return cargoes are now, to a large extent, specie, the real chink, instead of foreign gew-gaws.—The result is, that money is accumulating in quarters where, in the nature of things, it cannot long remain idle, and so soon as the marnot long remain idle, and so soon as the market is fairly cleared of the immense stock of foreign goods with which it was surfeited, that moment will there be a demand for domestic goods, and this idle capital will few mestic goods, and this idle capital will few the surfeit goods. A CHANCE FOR A CASH JOB!

THE Committee appointed for the purpose of repairing or rebuilding the COUNTY JAIL, for the County of Chittenden, would give public notice that they have come to the conclusion to pull down the old Jail and build a new one attached to the present dwelling house, and that the materials of the old Jail so far as they may be sniable will be made use of in building the new one. A plan for the New Jail and the addition to be made to the House, may be seen at the dwelling house of John Herrick, Esq. in Burlington, who will also shew Mechanics or other persons wishing to make proposals for the Joh, the premises and the materials of the old Jail. Sealed Proposals for building and furnishing materials for the entire job according to plan will be received until the first Monday of April next, at John Howards, in Burlington, at which place the said Committee will meet at 9 o'clock, A.M., of the same day, to decide.

The Committe further give notice that they shall not feel themselves bound to accept of any of the proposals that may be made, unless in their judgement such proposals may be more advantageous to the County than for them to proceed to build by hirting and superinceding it themselves. It is further expected that whoever may take the job will proceed under the supervision of the Committee, and the same must be done to their acceptance.

Improvement in whatever regards the happines

Improvement in whatever regards the happiness and welfare of our race is constantly on the march to perfection, and with each succeeding day some new problem is solved, or some profound screet revealed, having an important and direct bearing over man's highest destines. It we take a retrospective view over the past twenty years, how is the mind strick with worder! What rapid strides has science made in every department of civilized life! particularly in that which relates to the knowledge of the human system in health and disease. How valuable and indispensable are the curative means recently discovered through the agency of chemistry! How does the imagination kindle and our admiration glow at the ingenuity, the near appraich to the standard of perfection, of the present time! Through the elaborate investigations of Physiology, or the science of Life, and the Pathology of prevalent disease, much valuable practical knowledge has been gained. In consequence of becoming acquainted with the organization, the elements of the virious tissues and structures of the system, remedies have been sought after and ment of a scrottious affection on my left arm near the elbow.

The pain extended from the shoulder to the end of my lingers, and for two years my sufferings were beyond description. I tried various remedies and consulted different physicians in New York, and amongst them the late. Dr. Bushe, who told me the disease of the arm was caused by the large quantity of mercury taken to cure the inflamation of my eyes.

My sufferings continued, the arm enlarged, tomors formed in different places, and in a few months discharged, making ten runninguleers at one time, some above and some below the elbow, and the discharge was so oilensive that no person could hear to be in the room where I was. I then applied to another distinguished physician, who told me amputation of the arm was the only thing that could save my hire, as it was impossible to cure so dreadful a disease; but as I was unwilling to consent to it, he recommended me to use Swan's Panacea freely, which I did without deriving but hirtle henefit. For three years I was inable to raise my hand to my head, or comb my head, and the scrofula now made its appearance on my head, destroying the bone in different places, causing extensive ulcerations, and I feared it might reach and destroy the brain—the head swelled very much, accompanied with violent pain. Numerous external remedies were recommended, but they did no good.—About a year since I was taken severely ill with a swelling of the body from head to foot, so that I was sealingly helpless. The doctor advised me to go to the hospital, for he did not understand my case. For the last few months I had been afflated with a severe pain in both sides, at times so hard I could scarcely hold my breath. A hacking cough constantly annoyed me, and this combined with my other maiathes, readered me truly miserable. Such, gentleman, has been my situation for seven years of my life, when I commenced the use of your Sarsapacilla; but as my case was considered hopeless, and the near prospect of a speedy dissolution seemed inevitabl ed, new fle-h formed, and I once more fet within me that I might get well. I have now used the Sarsaparilla about two months, and am like a different being. The arm that was to be amputated has entirely healed, a thing that seemed impossible. I can scarcely believe the evidence of my own eyes, but such is the fact; and it is now as weful as at any period of my life, and my general health is better than it has been for years unst. r years past. Health, what magic in the word! how many tho Health, what magic in the word! how many thousands have sought it in foreign lands and sunny climes, and have sought in vain! Yet it came to me when I had give, up to die; and as I feel the pulsations of health coursing through my veins, my whole heart and soul go forth in fervent gratitude to the author of all our sure mercies, that he has been graciously pleased to bless the means made use of. 'Truly have you proved yourself the good Saumarian to the afficted, for next to my Creator my life is indebted to you for rather) the use of your invaluable Sarsaparilla. The value of such a medicine is countless beyond price, money cannot pay for it. I have been raised from death, I may say, for my friends and myself thought it impossible I could recover. And now gentlemen suffer me to add another proof certified to by my friends and guardians as a just acknowledgement of the virtues of your health restoring Sarsaparilla.
